

How to get there

By Plane

You take the plane to Hamburg Airport (or to any other airport in combination with the train). Another possibility is to take the plane to Copenhagen, there are direct trains from Copenhagen to Lübeck.

After that you take the train.

By train

You book the train to Lübeck Travemünde, which takes you to Lübeck Hauptbahnhof (Central Station), where you change trains to Travemünde.

From the station you walk south to the ferry, step over and walk to the Naturfreundehaus. I will be there with my car, so I can bring you from the ferry to the Naturfreundehaus.

Accommodation

Naturfreundehaus Priwall cost per night in single room € 54,-- incl. breakfast and supper
€ 62,-- incl. breakfast, lunch and supper

Youth Hostel Lübeck cost per night in single room € 48,-- incl. breakfast

Subsistence allow € 40 per day while not in the Naturfreundehaus

There will be no conference fee, but unfortunately we are unable to offer any help with travel of subsistence costs. A voluntary travel cost sharing arrangement may help to broaden the geographical range of participants.

It is envisaged that the main languages will be English and German. If it turns out that other languages are needed, we will see what we can do. Professional interpretation will not be provided (as from today), but it is hoped that participants will be able to offer informal interpretation as necessary.

I strongly recommend an additional stay (the guided tour(s)) at Lübeck

(<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/L%C3%BCbeck>). For centuries Lübeck was the Queen of the Hanseatic League, an association of trading cities from Flanders to Nowgorod (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hanseatic_League), a wealthy city with numerous historic buildings, town of birth of Thomas Mann, Erich Mühsam and former chancellor Brandt.

And you are welcome to visit me at home. I live in Preetz (<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Preetz>), an hour by train (70 km) from Lübeck, I have some beds in two rooms for you and I can provide further lodgings. Just let me know, if you want to come ahead of the Conference or afterwards.
